Pop Sonnets: Shakespearean Spins On Your Favorite Songs

Synopsis

The Bard meets the Backstreet Boys in Pop Sonnets, a collection of 100 classic pop songs reimagined as Shakespearean sonnets. All of your favorite artists are represented in these pages--from Bon Jovi and Green Day to Miley Cyrus, Beyoncé, and beyond. Already a smash sensation on the Internet--the Tumblr page has 50,000+ followers--Pop Sonnets has been featured by the A.V. Club, BuzzFeed, and Vanity Fair, among many others. More than half of these pop sonnets are exclusive to this collection and have never been published in any form.

A few weeks ago, I watched a TED Talk about Shakespeare and music. The speaker, in an attempt to help kids (and adults) try to understand and relate to sonnets and iambic pentameter, paired Shakespeare with hip-hop and hip-hop with Shakespeare. The rhythm from both music and sonnet seemed to transcend flawlessly into each other. So when I came across Pop Sonnets, I was more than excited to see how Erik Didriksen could tackle this. In case you're not familiar with Erik Didriksen, let me enlighten you a bit. Erik runs a Tumblr page called, you guessed it, Pop Sonnets. It has a pretty big following and has been featured on many sites. His page is dedicated to rewriting songs into sonnets and it's brilliant--just like this book. I'm familiar with about 99% of the songs and sonnets of this book so as you could probably imagine, I enjoyed every page. It's clever, it's fresh, and it's fun. Erik Didriksen oozes creativity. Here's a sonnet from a song that everyone on the planet is probably familiar with: "Let It Go" by Idina Menzel. This mountainside, engulfed in snow untouchable, reveals the isolation I command; the icy storms that I once tightly clutch within my heart are blanketing the land.No longer could I heed my parentsâ™ willto hold my youthful hopes and fears at bay;so all have seen Iâ™ve mastered winterâ™s chill â™my years of forced seclusion tossed away.The page hath now been turned; Iâ™ll break the chainsthat kept restrainâ™d my true identity.This queen will rule, but oâ™er her own domain,without a care for what they think of me.â™ Iâ™ll not again the falling snow withhold,for I have neâ™er been bothered by the cold.
